

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK.

Suggests to Suffering Women
the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

It is this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

Here is a woman who is so grateful and glad to be relieved from a painful and nerve racking physical condition that she wishes to tell all sick women.

"Well, no; I reckon not," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, to the appeal of the able editor of the Tumlinville Torch of Liberty. "I'm taking a paper now that one of my kin over in Oklahoma sends me, and it's drivin' me to death. What with being puny now and ag'in' getting down in the back every once in a while, and having more or less work to do, I kain't keep ketched up with my reading no way I can fix it. As 'tis, I just sorter pile up the papers as they come, and read from the bottom of the stack as I get time. Sherlock and the faithful Watson were strolling down Piccadilly.

"There's a woman in very short skirts just behind us, my dear doctor," murmured the great detective.

"Marvelous!" enthused Watson, after he had corroborated the statement by a glance behind. "How in the world did you ever know without turning your head?"

FEDERATION TO FIGHT IN COURTS AND AT THE POL

DEMANDS FOR GENERAL STRIKE FAIL TO GAIN FAVOR

Strong Legal Array Is To Appeal
Chicago In Effort to Overcome
Junctions Intended to Protect Way Property and Employees With To Work.

Washington.—Organized labor will make its fight for striking railroadersmen in Courts and at the poll it was disclosed here. No general strike as a protest against the government's injunction program for protecting railway property and employees willing to work will be attempted, is said.

The first action taken will be defensive. The American Federation of Labor will back the shop craft unions in their legal battle at Chicago September 11, to set aside the temporary injunction issued by the Federal Court there by which union men are restrained from interfering with those who have taken their places, picketing railroads or expending their union funds.

Able lawyers will be employed to prevent the injunction being made permanent on the ground that it violates constitutional rights of American citizens, particularly the right of free speech.

The second step will be offensive. Every labor union in the country will be mobilized in a nation-wide political campaign to defeat Republican candidates at the November election. The plan of campaign will be outlined at the meeting of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor called by Samuel Gompers, President.

It is hinted that Mr. McAdoo, who as Director-General of the Railroads, increased railroad wages during the World War, might be chosen as one of the American Federation of Labor attorneys to fight the injunction proceedings at Chicago. Mr. McAdoo is a prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination for President in 1924 and expects organized labor support.

Stabs Divorced Wife.

Bay City, Mich.—Gustav Frederick, 44 years old, drowned himself after he had attacked his divorced wife, stabbing her, probably fatally.

Mrs. Frederick obtained a divorce last July. Since then Frederick repeatedly had made overtures and threats in an effort to induce her to return to him.

Their twelve-year-old son is in the custody of the mother.

Many Face Starvation

Sydney, N. S.—Failure of the shore fisheries on the northeast coast of Newfoundland this season is threatening residents of the district with starvation, according to reports received here. Schooners engaged in the Northern fisheries this season were only about one third as many as ten years ago, yet individual vessels report the acutest catches on record.

Officials Are Vindicated

Washington.—Reports of two investigations made by American diplomats and consular officers in England, which have been received at the State Department, are understood to point to a complete vindication of Consul Stater and Vice Consul Brooks from charges that they had acted improperly in organizing travelers to patronize American Shipping Board vessels and in discrimination of the British Merchant Marine.

Buffalo Man Grilled

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Samuel Lewis, Buffalo, N. Y., was questioned by Department of Justice agents here in connection with the fire which destroyed a Pennsylvania Railroad bunkhouse with a loss of seven lives. Lewis was arrested by Federal Agents when he applied for a position on the railroad. After he had been quizzed for hours he was returned to jail "pending further investigation," authorities said.

Two Workmen Killed

Sayre, Penn.—Clyde Phenix and Columbus Fuller, both of Noxen, Penn., employed at the Lehigh Valley Railroad roundhouse, are dead as a result of an explosion of a boiler on a freight locomotive. Phenix, employed as a machinist helper, was killed instantly. Fuller, a machinist, died five hours later.

"Shelk Maker" Held.

New York.—Michele Patrillo, who advertised himself as a Shelk maker, was indicted on charges of having used the mails to defraud. For $3.50 he promised in his advertisements he would take young men of talent and obtain for them positions like that of Rudolph Valentino, screen actor. More than 200 aspiring youths answered the advertisement, and that was the last they heard of Patrillo or the money they sent him, according to police, until he was arrested.

GUARD UNCLE SAM'S FORESTS

Rangers Are Idealistic, Standing on Their Worth Alone, "Out Among the Big Things."

"Have you ever met him—guardian of Uncle Sam's great national forests; silent doer of deeds—the forest ranger?" asks Wallace Hutchinson in St. Nicholas. "Perhaps you have seen him out west on the lonely mountain trails or beside a glowing campfire; but if you have not 'seen' him with him, and reached a point of friendship where you could call him 'Ranger Bill,' you have not learned to know him for his true worth."

"The forest ranger typifies the land in which he lives, for he is a true westerner, no matter where he was born. The bigness of the out-of-doors is in his heart, and his manners bespeak the quiet places of the hills. As pioneer and guardian, he stands on his worth alone 'out among the big things.'

"Fearless of man and beast, he roams amid the solitude of giant forests and snow-capped mountains. Danger is his constant bed-fellow, but he sleeps quietly. His day's work is filled with more hazards than is a year in the life of an ordinary man. When duty calls, be it night or day, he answers the summons. He is an idealist, and it is this idealism that makes his hardships a matter of enjoyment."

"The work of a forest ranger is not highly remunerative; in fact, it is one of the poorest paid of all government jobs. If he longs for high position and big salary he quits and seeks other fields. But most often, the call of the great outdoors, the freedom of mountain and plain, is so deeply instilled in him that he stays on hoping for better things, yet willing, if need be, to make many sacrifices in order that the work that he has well started may not be left to unskilled hands."

"The ranger is an officer of the law, a fire-fighter, woodsman, surveyor, game-warden and oftentimes the leading man in his little community. His back yard covers ten thousand acres, and his universe stretches onward and upward, past valley and forest and peak, to the clear air and sparkling sunshine of the heavens."

"To meet Ranger Bill, and listen to his tale of adventure is like reading a wonderful book of romance. His understanding of men and animals and birds and trees is the heritage of the wilderness, unspoiled by envy and suspicion. In him you will find a modest hero, not such, perhaps, as we know from books, but a quiet, gentlemanly fellow living happily through a life of ideals—a real man!"

They Understood.

"You dispersed the mob?"

"Yes," said the sheriff, nonchalantly. "When the boys swarmed around the hill I stepped out with a couple of guns in my hands an' spoke sorter soothin' to 'em."

"What did you say?"

"I just reminded 'em that my brother was runnin' the only undertakin' shop in town an' everybody that knowed me knowed I was a strong family man who'd do anything in reason to boost the business of a relative!"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The late Mrs. George Gould hated divorce.

At a Lakewood dinner party a young divorcee was admiring Mrs. Gould's splendid jewels.

"Oh, that's your wedding ring, isn't it?" she said. "How old-fashioned it looks, doesn't it? In the past they made them so much wider and heavier than they do now!"

"In the past, you see," said Mrs. Gould, "they expected them to last a lifetime."

MERE MATTER OF AMUSEMENT

Arkansas Could Easily Afford to Treat Such Amateur Shooting With the Contempt Deserved.

"What's that?" cried a tourist to whom a resident of Stradie Ridge, Ark., was showing the scenery of the region.

"Aw, just Tug Bald or his brother-in-law taking a shot at me from over across the boiler," was the nonchalant reply. "Them fellers have been cuttin' that caper off and on for six weeks or such a matter."

"Great grief! What do you do about it?"

"Nuthin' in particular. They're the poorest shots on the Ridge and never come nigher to me than ten feet or so. It sorter amuses me to see grown men doing such childish tricks and never 'complishing anything at it.'—Kansas City Star.

Was a Bridge Tender.

"There's no fool like an old fool," of course. A week or two ago one of our members of the Leg-in-the-Grave club got caught in a bridge fight that lasted until the small hours. He was not much concerned about it since his good wife, once parked for the night, sleeps on through, or, at least, has the grace not to ask when he gets in. However, merely as a matter of habit he turned the key softly and was slipping quietly to his room, when the childish voice of his small grand-daughter piped up through the open door of her bedroom:
